trait of CYRUS W. FIEUD, ESQ., To twhose indomitable energy and unfaltering perseveran civilized globe is indebted for the accomplishment of triumphant enterprise.

The volume compiles a complete and authentic narrative of the various steps in the progress of this great work of the age. It embodies a sketch of the early history of Telegraphic opera-tions in the United States, gives a general view of the previous attempts to introduce the use of Submarine Castes in different parts of the world, and proceeds to give a complete record of the inception, progress and successful termination of the Adiantic Telegraph enterpile. In the course of this marrative there are comprehensive memoirs of Mr. Cyrns V. Field, of whom an excellent steel portrait is given; of Prof. Samuel B. excellent seed portrait is given; of Prof. Samuel B. Morse, and other gentlemen whose names have been intimately associated with the work.

Throughout the volume, great care has been exercised in regard to accuracy of dates and the arrangement of events in gard to accuracy of dates and the arrangement of events in the proposition of the preliminary history of the Magnetic Telegraph a proper degree of attention has been given to the collection and classification of useful information from many different sources.

The necessity of a Hand-Book of this character became so apparent to the publishers that they have spared no pains to present the work in attractive style, in the belief that its permanent value as a volume of reference will be recomised. The universal interest which attaches to the history of the Atlantic Telegraph—the antitant poy with which the news of its suncess awas received in all parts of the country—the direct share of every man in the worderful effort which its linking of Europe and America must produce, render an authentic record of the great event most desirable.

Naw-York, July 27, 1886.

Mr. D. H. CARPENTER—
DEAR SIR: After carefully observing the operation of your "Verper Gas Light," I am of the opinion that it is the safest and best light now in use.

JAMES J. MAPES, Consulting Engineer.

D. H. CARFENTER & Co.:

I am much pleased with the performance of your Vesper Gas Burter.

The illuminating power of Bursing Fluid is derived solely from Campbete. One sallen of Campbene for your Lamp is equivalent to five of Bursing Fluid.

Yours is the city Lamp for burning Campbene or Sensole that I can recommend for general use.

CHARLES A. SEELY, Chamist.

New York, July 22, 1853.

Mr. CARPENTER.

DEAR STR. Your Lamp is, I believe, the first and only invention that offects, before combustion, a thorough straign of the vapor of the clis med for librariantion. By effecting this you are unabled to butto compounds tich in earbor effectially without the sid of a chimner, producing a light of superior quality, at a minimum of cost, and it accompanied with danger from explication.

New-York, July 27, 1858.

I have used the Vesper Gas Light Fixtures some time, and find that it is perfectly safe. The light is more beautiful than say I have ever used or seen. The expense is less than the same amount of light can be preduced by any other means known to me.

E. J. BROWN, No. 145 Broadswy.

New York, July 28, 1858.
This is to certify that I have used one of your Vespor Lumpa for the last six menths in connection with coal gas on the same floor, and find it produces a light superior to ordinary cas, with the advantage of reing portable and more occuminal, the expense being about half a ceat per hour with a full head on.
